Why Cyber Incident Response Plans Matter

Every organization is at risk of a cyber attack. Having clear steps or protocols in place to handle an attack will help minimize the effects of the breach. Below are a few benefits of having a cyber incident response plan in place:

- Preparedness - With a response plan in place, your company can better anticipate incidents before they occur. The plan can help you minimize the impact and vulnerabilities during an attack.
- Reduce Potential Costs - The quickness of a response can help to limit financial damage (direct and indirect) done by the breach.
- Security - The response plan helps to protect your business and client data, reducing the amount of individuals effected by the breach.
